sponsible therefor. He urged the ne-cessity of raising supplies at home and said that if there was suffering now, it was because of two reasons-lack of common sense and laziness. He was proud to see the spirit manifest in the chautauqua tent. Hon. E. J. Watson. Next to the rural free delivery system, the chautauqua is the greatest university ever established in this country, said Hon. E. J. Watson, commissioner of agriculture and emigra-tion, who was the last speaker introduced to the audience. It has been the duced to the audience. It has been the means of giving thousands of men some education which they would not otherwise have had. It brings before them men from all walks of life from whom they gain much experience and A plea to the farmers of the state to continue the work of planting grain and raising foodstuffs, was the gist of Commissioner Watson's address.

South Carolina farmers, he said, had gone "fertilizer mad." Instead of gone "fertilizer mad." Instead o planting legumes—the best fertilizer yearly for artificial fertilizers which they were spending millions of dollars

He cited in point a York county farmer who had nearly gone into bankruptcy buying German potash when his own farm contained enough potash to last 2,000 years. He urged farmers to get a more intelligent knowledge of their own premises, to raise those things which were neces-sary for the nourishment of man and beast, first and then to turn their attention to cotton as a surplus.

We have made more progress in this line in the last year, said Commission-er Watson, than we had in the previous 50. A year ago there were about five flour mills in operation in the

what I want to see is a state-wide spirit of co-operation. Get the merchant and the bank in line with the farmer. I want to see the local merchant are the see that the see t chants handling the products of the local farms. I would have your slogan be, "Carolina First." Thursday Morning.

Major W. B. Moore presided at the exercises yesterday morning, which were opened with prayer by Rev. T. T. Walsh, and introduced the two speakers of the occasion, Dr. Henry N. Snyder, president of Wofford college, and der, president of Wofford college, and Congressman A. F. Lever of the Seventh congressional district. The presiding officer stated that he was appearing in a new role. It was the mayor's job to preside at public meetings, but since the mayor was feeling unwell, probably because of the fact that "his carborator, liver or other organs were out of commission," he had been asked to preside. On the part of the "so-called board of trade and the little bunch that represented 95 of the "so-called board of trade and the little bunch that represented 95 per cent of the citizenship of the town," he wished to extend a cordial welcome

Dr. Snyder.

"The People Finding Themselves," was the subject of the lecture with which Dr. Snyder of Wofford college, entertained his hearers for forty min-utes or more. The human person is the most wonderful of the things of earth, the speaker said. The animals are strong and wonderful; but man is more wonderful. The essential unity of our being is the mind, body and spirit. We can't break them up. The first thing that meets the hu-man is the call to perform some kind the speaker was willing to agree as to the truth of the statement. In order to achieve higher and nobler things, work and labor are necessary. Worklife, playlife, lovelife and wor-shiplife gets its fruits when we begin at the right time to cultivate at the right time to cultivate those things. The best is only coming when we do our best in the beginning. The inspiring thing about a child is not what it is but what it can be. Kings and queens can be molded from the little bit of flesh and bone which is the beginning. Training is the all-import-The process of knowing ourselves never ends.

The speaker, whose address was beautifully illustrated, paid a tribute to the work of the chautauqua platform. It is, he said, the outcome of a new spirit which has been lying doranew spirit which has been lying doranew spirit which has been lying doranew spirit within the spirit of democratic spirits spirits of democratic spirits spi mant within us—the spirit of democracy and Americanism which has never been realized in its fullest meaning. been realized in its fullest meaning. When I ask the meaning of democracy, you say, it is the ballot, and we have it. Yes, you men have it, you can vote; but, he said, pointing to the ladies, you can't.

He paid a glowing tribute to Wood-row Wilson, who was in his opinion, one of the greatest of presidents.

The highest task of an American community, said Dr. Snyder in concommunity, said Dr. Snyder in con-clusion, is the task of all joining to-gether to lift others to a sweet and stronger joy of the beautiful things of life. Democracy stands for that. The speaker was the recipient of a bouquet of flowers when he conclud-

Congressman Lever.

"When we public men don't know anything else to talk about we talk about the cotton crop," said Hon. A. F. Lever, who was the last speaker of the morning. I am going to tell you people today my views as to the out-look for this cotton crop. Is the out-look better now than it was a year ago, and if so, why? Will it be better for the farmers to sell their crop as fast as they can pick and gin it or shall we market slowly?

The condition of you farmers in 1915 compared with their condition in 1914, in regard to credit is indeed better, he said. There is plenty of money here. For the first time in the history of the country the secretary of the treasury has put $30,000,000 in south ern banks to move the cotton crop. The crop, in the speaker's judgment, would not total over 11,500,000 bales, whereas it was 16,500,000 last year.
The consumption of cotton last year was only 300,000 bales less than the year before, and in view of the fact that practically all the spindles in the country were now running—some of them day and night, he believed the consumption this year would be con-siderably more than last year.

The surplus of cotton from last year's crop now on hand, said Mr. Lever, is about 3,000,000 bales. Add to that the 11,500,000 bales to be raised this year and the total is 14,500,000 bales. The world's yearly demand for American cotton is 15,000,000 bales. There will, therefore, be a shortage and he did not see why the present the farmers could only manage to hold their crops during the months of September, October and November. Foreign nations—those at war—have got to have our cotton this year even as in the past. They have got to clothe their armies. Since the beginning of the war last August, the Allies and the Germans have used 2,500,000 bales of cotton for the manufacture of high explosives, and it stands to reason that if the struggle continues another twelve months they will consume another 2,500,000 for the same pur-

You farmers can afford to hold your cotton this year better than ever be-fore, Mr. Lever, pointed out. The crop has been raised more cheaply than it has ever been before. You have raised more foodstuffs than you ever have before. The thing to do is to warehouse your cotton and borrow what money you need on it. True, 8 per cent discount is awful to contemplate. Mr. W. G. P. Harding, the southern member of the Federal reserve board recently in a speech at Birmingham, Ala., advised the bankers to lend money on cotton at a low rate of in-terest. President Wilson has ordered national banks to lend money on cotton

Will it pay to market slowly? asked the congressman. If we can only tide over the next three months we have saved the fight. Mr. Herbert of the New York cotton exchange, in his let-ters, says that the spinners are holdters, says that the spinners are nou-ing back purchases with a view to geting cheap cotton. It is therefore up to you farmers to hold your crop. If you do market slowly, my candid judgment is that you are going to ge much higher price.

The speaker paid his respects to

at a rate of interest from 4 to 6 per those men who were criticising the Democratic administration on the ground that it was doing nothing to help the southern cotton farmer. Those critics are mislead, he said, because cotton would not have sold for a cents per pound last year except for the Federal reserve act, the Lever act and other legislation calculated to bolster up the price. When you hear a man criticising President Wilson in this matter I want you to ask that critic, "what he would do to relieve the situation

There are two plausible defenses of their complaint which I have heard, continued the speaker. One is that the president should call an extra session of congress and put an embargo on exports. That couldn't be done. The northern and western congressmer would never vote for it because their people are getting rich on exports of heat, corn, mules and beef.

The other argument which is a little more plausible is that the United States, a nation which stands for peace, should not furnish arms to kill ople abroad. I tell you the millenium has not yet come and the time of war is not over, continued Mr. Leve in his defense of the administration. We know not when we may be in war. Should we refuse further shipments abroad and were drawn in war some time later, other countries would re taliate by refusing to furnish us with arms when we needed them.

Congressman Lever paid tribute to President Wilson, to whom he referred as the man in the White House who has more foresight and courage than any other since Jefferson. In dealing with Germany on the submarine ques-tion, he had achieved the greatest dilomatic coup of a hundred years. Quite bitter was his excoriation o x-President Roosevelt, who he sal as "gallavanting around the country telling people what he would do if he was president." Thank God he ain't and never will be again, he declared. Those men who with blasphemous learts attack Wilson ought to get on their knees with their little circles around them and thank God that he has given them Woodrow Wilon in these troublesome days.

Congressman Lever was liberally applauded when he concluded his ad-Today's Exercises.

Back Again---

Our buyer, Mr. Wood, has returned from Baltimore and New York. the market he bought liberal supplies of Coat Suits and Coats. Dress Goods and Silks, Notions, Trimmings, Millinery, Ribbons, Men's and Boys' Clothing, Furnishings, etc. These purchases will begin to arrive now within a few days and will be displayed on our counters as rapidly as they arrive and we want you to come and see the New Goods, Ask Questions about the New Styles, and in general make yourself at home. We are here to serve you in every way a good store can serve you. Best Qualities at Lowest Prices will be our constant aim and what you buy at Thomson's Will Be Right In Quality and Price.

Again this season, Miss Eloise Bacon, whose artistic trimming is so favorably known to our Millinery trade. will have charge of Thomson's Millinery Department, and will arrive here in a few days, and be ready to give the latest pointers as to correct styles as to Ladies' headwear as seen in the metropolitan centers of fashion, and she will be pleased to give you full benefit of her experience and observation. Come.

This weather feels like Blankets. See Thomson's.

We have less than half a dozen of the carload of Tennessee and Kentucky Mules that we shipped to this market about the first of the month. But still we have several nice animals, that we either want to sell or exchange for good Mules that are older. Our belief that there were enough far-seeing farmers in this vicinity to buy a car of Mules in the good old sum-mer time has proved to be correct. Mr. Farmer, if you are looking for-Mr. Farmer, it you are looking forward to buying new Mules next Spring let us urge you to buy NOW, because there is every indication and it is the belief of dealers everywhere that the prices of Mules will be out of sight by next Spring. NOW is your best time to buy—WE are folks for YOU to see. A Square Deal With No Round Cor-

LIFE

IT CAN BE A SUCCESS OR A FAIL-URE. WHICH WILL IT BE WITH YOU? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? Look at the men who are successful in the eyes of the world. Ninety-nine out of every hundred started a Bank Account when they were young—and stuck to it.

And now, look at the failures. Very few of them have a Bank account now. Not speaking of when they were young.

Not speaking of when they were young.

Perhaps you think you have not enough money to start an account.

Haven't you a dollar? That's all it takes at THIS BANK. Just try it for a year or six months. If you do not wish to continue it you have lost nothing by the trial.

Which Will It Be-Success or Failure? IT'S UP TO YOU. Bank of Hickory Grove
